

DISCLAIMER

Participation in the Opt-In program is entirely voluntary and is subject to conditions, such as periodic renewal or other verification methodologies, that LETA may adopt. To participate in this program for emergency calls you must read and accept the terms of this disclosure and provide the information required.

LETA is not responsible for incorrect information provided by participants in the Opt-In program or for any charges or fees that may be charged to participants by telephone or data service providers as a result of participation in the program. LETA cannot monitor the current or future accuracy of the information provided by participants in this program. It is the sole responsibility of participants to keep any information provided current.

In addition to the foregoing, LETA assumes no legal responsibility for dropped calls, misrouted calls, or other occurrences which may result in notification failures.